- To reach equity, we have to walk through truth.

Donald Warren, M.D. (Oglala)

“It’s hard to bridge that gap between what the Elders know and how to show it in numbers”

DECOLONIZE DATA

REVISION 10/30

- Historical trauma is cumulative emotional and psychological wounding over the lifespan and across generations, emanating from massive group trauma
- Historical unresolved grief accompanies that trauma

Historical Healing is gathering the pieces broken by historical trauma and stitching them back together in intricate patterns of strength and resiliency

Our Bodies, Our Stories

CREATES

meaning

Public Health calls them data points.

I call them Storytellers Of Health.

Why are stories important?

- DATA IS STORY

What is our responsibility to the storyteller?

- Care and protect them from harm

What is our responsibility to the story?

- Meaningful intent for the good and wellbeing of the people
